

April 4, 2017 -- Kent & Risley LLC is excited to welcome Cortney Alexander to its growing Intellectual Property and Complex Civil Litigation team.

Cortney has nearly 15 years of experience practicing intellectual-property litigation, focusing on the enforcement of U.S. patent rights at the trial-court level. He also represents clients in appellate proceedings before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. His work has involved a wide range of technologies, including wind-turbine technology, various Internet technologies, distributed networking, pattern-recognition technology, medical devices, and artificial sports playing fields. Cortney also has experience with strategic patent portfolio development, in which he uses his litigation experience to help clients develop patent portfolios that provide tangible protection to their business and revenue streams.

Cortney began his legal career as an associate with Frost Brown Todd LLC in Louisville, Kentucky. He joined Finnegan, Henderson, Farabow, Garrett & Dunner, LLP as an associate in 2005. He was named a partner at Finnegan in 2011, and continued working in their Atlanta office until joining Kent & Risley on April 3, 2017 as a partner.
